

Genealogy Newsletter – April 2018

Electoral Registers Collection 1832 – 1932

Find My Past in partnership with the British Library have made available for the first time a collection of registers for England and Wales. These are of prime importance as they list all those entitled to vote, and have been kept annually which can be of great help with your research between the census years. However, before you start your research, I suggest you explore the information on ‘Parliamentary Constituencies and their Registers Since 1832’ (PDF format) to find the right constituency according to the date when you want to start your research, details available on my attached research guidance notes, then log into the following link and start your search at;

<https://search.findmypast.co.uk/search-world-Records/england-and-wales-electoral-registers-1832-1932>

Futurelearn MOOC (Massive Open Online Courses)

I hear that more U3A family history group members are taking their studies further with the online course on genealogy, at the University of Strathclyde. Primarily designed for people at the beginner to intermediate level, you can join the free course or upgrade, pay £72 and study for a Certificate of Achievement. If you're interested, log into;

<https://www.futurelearn.com/courses/genealogy>

Again, if you haven't already subscribed to the online magazine ‘Genealogy in Time’ you should sign-up, it's free and every month they update you on the new family history records that have become available the previous month, I can recommend it.

www.genealogyintime.com